MUNICIPAL NEWS

Some Items of Interest From the Public Offices About Occurrences of the Week.

The City Council held a special meeting on Monday and hit makers and throwers of stench bombs a hard blow. An ordinance sought by Chief of Police Steward and providing a fine of from $50 to $200 for every offense, was rushed through at the council's special session, and signed by the mayor, and five minutes after the matter was called up Chief of Police Steward had rushed to his office and ordered a squad of detectives to begin searching for the places where the "bombs" were made.

Chief Steward has a pretty good idea of their location, and in addition the ordinance is so drawn that purchasers of the chemicals used in manufacturing the bombs can be readily traced.

Without a protest the report of the finance committee recommending an ordinance ratifying the proposed new lighting contract between the city and the sanitary district was received. As the ordinance is a committee report, the matter may have to lie over until the next regular meeting of the council, as deferred committee reports cannot be acted upon at special meetings.

The contract provides for the sanitary district to install an additional 10,000 arc lamps throughout the city, which will make Chicago the best lighted city in the world. With these installed there will be about 23,000 arc lights within the city limits. No opposition to the contract has developed as the city, although getting 10,000 more lamps, will have the total of 23,000 at less cost than that of the lamps now in service.

The more important terms of the contract are:

Ten thousand new arc lamps will be added to the city's lighting equipment.

Five thousand of the 12,200 now in service will be replaced.

Installation and improvements will be made by the sanitary district at a cost of between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

Repayment will be made by the city in seven annual installments.

The sanitary district will supply all power at $15 per horse power per year, plus $1 for each lamp.

This will bring the annual cost to the city for each light to $33, one-half of the present expense.

Commissioner of Public Works Mullaney in a report called the council's attention to the present system of keeping track of the manner in which city employees are bonded. In order to "bring order out of chaos," Mr. Mullaney asked that the matter be referred to the finance committee for investigation, which was done. He showed that many city employees were not required to file bonds, while others whose duties did not necessitate the formality were compelled to do so. He showed that only two ward superintendents, Mrs. Imogene Paul and R. P. Sullivan, had filed bonds, while every bridge tender in the city employ was under bond.

The Deputy Commissioner of Public Works in a letter to Acting Street Superintendent Cochrane, called attention to defects in the payrolls of the bureau and threatened action against those responsible. Mr. Cochrane said the fault was not with his bureau, but with the Civil Service Commission. The letter of Mr. Hewitt says: "There have been a number of material defects in the labor rolls of the bureau of streets for each period since June 10 last, when it became my duty to approve of these rolls. The chief defects are tardiness and inaccuracies. You will please notify each ward superintendent that what may appear to them as drastic action will be taken if there are any inaccuracies in the labor payrolls for the current period."

Another able man has been added to the payroll. Commissioner of Public Works Mullaney announced the appointment of Charles I. Smith, ward superintendent of the Sixteenth ward, as second assistant superintendent of streets, in charge of street and alley cleaning. Acting Superintendent of Streets Cochrane is the civil-service holder of the position. Smith will hold his position under a sixty-day appointment until Cochrane returns to it, or is made superintendent of streets, in which case an examination probably will be held for the position.
